

New Jersey

In New Jersey, the food and beverage industry contributes at least $10,010,756,000 per annum in value added to the economy, employs at least 55,546 people, and operates 900 facilities.¹

The food industry in New Jersey also relies heavily on strong access to foreign markets, as processed foods account for approximately 9.8% of total non-durable exports.²

¹Data from 2006 Annual Survey of Manufacturers or 2006 County Business Patterns conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau

² Foreign Trade Division, U.S. Census Bureau